

PEPFAR

The President's Emergency Plan for AIDS Relief (PEPFAR), housed within the U.S. Department of State, coordinates a whole-of-government approach to U.S. investments that have turned the tide of the global HIV/AIDS crisis

PEPFAR has saved millions of lives — and counting. Thanks to the work of PEPFAR:

Nearly	More than	More than
25 million	5.5 million	7 million
men, women, and children living with HIV have received life-saving treatment.	babies have been born HIV-free.	orphans, vulnerable children, and their caregivers have received critical care and support.

PEPFAR IS A HISTORIC SUCCESS STORY:

PEPFAR established a new paradigm in global health by partnering with faith-based organizations, NGOs, local partners, and the federal government, and is increasingly implemented by on-the-ground organizations.

The healthcare systems built by PEPFAR, including laboratories, 340,000 trained health workers, networks of clinics and hospitals, and data reporting systems, quickly transitioned to respond to emerging diseases including COVID-19 and Ebola.

The program has been reauthorized by overwhelming bipartisan majorities in the House and Senate and supported by presidents of both parties, delivering consistent impact and a consistent budget. despite flat funding since 2009.

PEPFAR strengthens America's standing in the world:

In countries where PEPFAR operates, public opinion of the U.S. is higher than the global average.

PEPFAR-supported countries are more politically and economically stable than countries where the program is not engaged.

And the work of PEPFAR is not finished. With PEPFAR, we aim to eliminate HIV as a global public health threat by 2030.
